Senate Investigating Committee Hears Evidence of Methods.

Fox Says Firms Were Named Only So Others Would Get Preference.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Evidence re-lating to political activities of brewers and their alleged efforts to boycott firms and individuals antagonistic to the liquer business was adduced to-day be-fore the Senate committee investigating brewers propaganda and the purchase of the Washington Times by Arthur Bris-hane.

bane.

Major E. Lowry Humes, who is conducting the inquiry for the committee, also undertook to show from documents produced by officers of the United States Brewers Association a connection between that organization and the Germantween that organization and the German-American Alllance. The charter of the alliance was revoked recently by Con-ress after a Senate committee had in-vertigated its activities.

Major Humes put into the record lists of candidates for public effice which he said were to be supported by the brewers' association and the alliance, and also a statement which he asperted was prepared for C. J. Hexamer, Philadelphia, former president of the alliance, at the office of the brewers' association. The statement, Major Humes declared, was German propaganda.

Only two witnesses, Hugh F. Fox, New York, secretary of the brewers' national organization, and John Gardiner, Philadelphia, former chairman of the #### Names "Unfriendly" Firms.

Fox was questioned at length regarding the war waged by brewers on antagonistic frams and individuals. Some of the firms named were the John Wanamaker Company, the Cadillac, Packard, National and Reo automobile companies; the H. J. Heinz Company, Goodrich Tire Company, American Reling Mills, Middleton, Ohio; Fox Typewriter Company, Maryland and Baltimore Casualty Company, Prooter & Gamble Company, Grasselli Chemical Company, Cleveland, Ohio; some subsidiaries of the Standard Oli Company, United States Steel Corpora. pany, United States Steel Corpora on, S. S. Kresge Company, Red Rave Water Company, American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, Republic Rubber Company and Lackawanna Raliroad.

Fox denied that any of the firms named had been blacklisted, saying that the association's purpose merely was "to give preference to those who were friends." Later he told the committee that he would be willing to assume that all the documents relating to the firms which Major Humes put into the record were taken from the files of the asso-

Might Have Seen Lists.

The inquiry into political activity be-gan when John Gardiner was called to the stand. The witness said he might have seen lists of candidates at different times from 1911 to 1914, which the Brewers Association indorsed in some States, including Iowa, Texas, Pennsyl-vania, Indiana and one candidate for as from Illinois, but he could not recall the details.

He admitted that the association's organization committee was active in "wet" and "dry" fights in several States in those years, and said in that time it spent between $400,000 and $500,000,

"doing all it legitimately could to arouse public sentiment in our favor."
Gardiner declared that the brewers

Pennsylvania Contributions.

Records of the Brewers Association Records of the Brewers Association read by Major Humes showed in 1914 the Fennsylvania State Association collected $254,114 for political activity in that State and that in the following year $196,754 was collected for the same purpose. Gardiner said he did not think the sums were as high as that, and explained that different State organizations raised various amounts, each brewery raised various amounts, each brewery being assessed on its output. In the "wet" and "dry" campaign in Nebraska several years ago, he said, the assessment was 50 cents for each barrel of beer brewed. "The fight was lest," the witness added. In reply to questions he said the Pennsylvania State association adopted the policy of destroying check stubs and cancelled checks and barries as the said the policy of destroying check stubs and cancelled checks. checks each month after its bank accounts were balanced. No minutes of ts meetings were kept.

'Wasn't it because the activity of the Pennsylvania State association was en-tirely political that you thought it best o adopt this policy?" asked Major

W. Feigenspan, Newark, N. J., who aided in financing the purchase of the Washington Tenes and the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, and who then was chairman of the publications committee of the association.

Condemned Factory Destruction.

Hexamer's statement condemned as sabotage the destruction of American factories engaged in producing war ma-terials for the Allies, and also con-demned the sinking of ships carrying minitions. Those responsible for such should be punished. Hexamer said, but the added that he did not believe they committed at the instigation of Much Misery Seen.

"Nothing we read over here gives us an adequate conception of the misery among the radiugees." Mise Day said.
"As our army goes forward through the parts of France lately occupied by the Germans and into Germany a constant, pitful stream of old men, women and children is coming back into France. They must be clothed, and that is our work. For four years they have been dressed in our castoff garments; now we owe them some new ones. American women are going to Europe to do the hard work of reconstruction, and the least we who stay at home can do is to back up those women by making the things most needed by the people: they go to aid.

"Don't let our men over there, when they see the victims of the war, see they ago to aid.

"Don't let our men feel that we on this side have gone back to our old ways of iliving, forgetting our duty. It would have a very bad effect on the Americans soldiers. I know many women don't like to sew, but we've got to do it."

Alias Day said that the Red Cross workrooms hadn't been as full as they cought to be since peace was declared, and that too many of the workers seemed to feel that now there was nothing for them to do?

Washington, Nov. 20.—Italy has embarked on a definite reconstruction programme and nearly three and a half billion lire ($700,000,000) has been appropriated to carry it out, said an official despatch to-day from Rome. Measures have been adopted to permit all war factories to resume peace production immediately.

The despatch also quotes Food Commissioner Crispi as eaying that because of the addition of nearly 5,000,000 persons to Italy's population by reason of the Austrian evacuation further restrictions on food rations will be necessary.

During the war you made bandages enough to sink all the ships; you made so many bandages that you had to be checked. Now put the same energy into making clothes. There is room in our work rooms for 4,000 more garment makers. And the garments needn't all be made in the workrooms. They can just as well be made at home.
